Desert Field Ecology
24 - 30 June 2019

COURSE OUTLINE
This advanced ecology unit focuses on the ecology and management of desert river environments in central Australia. The unit hinges on a 7-day field intensive during which you will participate actively in field based research in the spectacular World Heritage listed Tjoritja / West MacDonnell National Park. Methods will include camera trapping, surveys of aquatic vertebrates and invertebrates, bird surveys and assessment of river red gum populations. Desert Field Ecology is available as both an undergraduate and master level unit. Students from other universities and other external participants (e.g. conservation and land management practitioners) are welcome.

COST

Includes transport, share accommodation in Alice Springs (23 June, 29 & 30 June) and Glen Helen (5 nights 24 June - 29 July) and all meals, except while in Alice Springs, plus transport from Darwin to Alice Springs if required.

- CDU Bachelor or Environmental Science, Bachelor of Science or Master of Environmental science students and cross-institutional enrolments $350 (+HECS).
- External participants $990 for tuition and field trip costs.

GETTING THERE

Students are generally required to make their own way to Alice Springs before 24 June and home after 30 June. The field intensive begins early on Monday the 24 June and ends late on Sunday 30 June so please do not arrange travel on those dates. Limited places are available on the field trip bus for students needing to travel from Darwin to Alice Springs and return before and after the intensive.

Darwin to Alice Springs: There are seats available on a CDU bus travelling from Darwin to Alice Springs with equipment and returning after the fieldtrip. If you are interested in having a seat on the bus please let us know at EITEadmin@cdu.edu.au
