

Academic and Scientific Misconduct Policy

INTRODUCTION

Academic integrity is an essential component of scholarly activity. Such activity involves researching, understanding and building upon the work of others and requires that credit be given to others where it is due, and that the contributions of others be acknowledged. The University expects a high level of professional conduct from staff and students. Plagiarism, collusion and related forms of cheating, academic dishonesty and fraud are neither acceptable nor permitted.

The University will implement controls for the prevention and detection of plagiarism, collusion and related forms of cheating, academic dishonesty and fraud. The University will also take steps to ensure that staff and students know of their obligations in relation to these.

STATEMENT OF AUTHORITY

The authority behind this policy is the Charles Darwin University Act 2003 part 3, section 15.

COMPLIANCE

This is a compliance requirement under the:

- Higher Education Standards Framework \(Threshold Standards\);
- Standards for Registered Training Organisations \(RTOs\); and
- National Code of Practice for Providers of Education and Training to Overseas Students

INTENT

This policy is intended to provide the framework for management, including prevention, detection and dealing with, plagiarism, collusion and related forms of cheating, academic dishonesty and fraud at the University.

RELEVANT DEFINITIONS

In the context of this document

Collusion means another person assisting in the production of an assessment submission or body of work without the express requirement, or consent or knowledge of the assessor;

Governance document means a formally approved document that outlines non-discretionary governing principles and intentions, in order to guide University practice. Governance documents are formal statements of intent that mandate principles or standards that apply to the University's governance or operations or to the practice and conduct of its staff members and students they include the Charles Darwin University Act (2003), by-laws, policies, procedures, guidelines, rules, codes and the Enterprise Agreement;

POLICY

Plagiarism

Staff and students may use information and ideas expressed by others, but this use must be identified by appropriate referencing. Material that is subject to plagiarism includes, but is not necessarily limited to:

- Written work, such as essays, books, reports, theses, journal articles and computer programs, whether published or unpublished;
- Research material such as data, results or conclusions; and
- Non word-based material such as musical scores, mathematical formulae, audio-visual material, art, and industrial plans (in short, any product of another person's mental labour).

The medium in which the work is presented does not affect the issue of whether plagiarism occurs. Any material copied and used as one's own (whether from the written word, audio, video or electronic media such as the internet) is covered under this policy.

This policy will be implemented in a way that ensures:

- Compliance with relevant legislative requirements and prevailing community standards of best practice;
- Compliance with the University Quality Policy;
- The investigation process is fair to both the person suspected of plagiarism, collusion and related forms of cheating, academic dishonesty and fraud, and the person or people who suspect this has occurred;
- The academic standards of the University are upheld; and
- There is adequate training and available information, especially in areas that make plagiarism and collusion less likely to occur.

Charles Darwin University is committed to:

- Reviewing and clearly documenting procedures and guidelines that relate to plagiarism, collusion and related forms of cheating, academic dishonesty and fraud;
- Compliance with relevant legislation, policies and procedures with regard to ethical academic practices;
- Identifying competency needs and providing appropriate training and professional development of staff to meet those needs; and

- Investigating and reporting on the status of controls and findings within the University in accordance with the University's Fraud Control Policy.

The Pro Vice-Chancellor, Education and Student Success is responsible:

- For developing, reviewing and implementing governance documents that specify the University's requirements on matters specifically relating to plagiarism, collusion and related forms of cheating, academic dishonesty and fraud in learning and teaching; and
- For monitoring that such activities are carried out, as appropriate, in compliance with relevant University governing documents.
