

Public Art Policy

INTRODUCTION

The University has purchased and will from time to time, purchase, commission or accept donations of public art for display on its campuses and centres around the Northern Territory and elsewhere in order to:

- Create built and natural environments on University campuses and centres that are infused with qualities of diversity, vibrancy, creativity and imagination and contribute to the wellbeing of people using those campuses;
- Enhance student, staff and community enjoyment, engagement and understanding of the University's place and role in the Northern Territory, through the integration of public art on its campuses and centres; and
- Create a supportive environment that contributes to art and cultural understanding and development by fostering creativity, knowledge and innovation.

STATEMENT OF AUTHORITY

The authority behind this policy is the Charles Darwin University Act 2003 part 3, section 15.

COMPLIANCE

This is a compliance requirement under the Charles Darwin University Act 2003 part 3, section 15.

INTENT

The intent of this policy is to provide a framework for the acquisition, management, use and enjoyment of public art on the University's campuses and centres.

RELEVANT DEFINITIONS

In the context of this document

Public Art means any artistic work created for and located in publically accessible areas of the University's campuses and centres other than designated galleries, and may include permanent or temporary art, such as; installations, sculptures, paintings, ceramics/murals, site specific artworks including those integrated into buildings and public spaces, digital media works or ephemeral artworks.

POLICY

Objectives

The objective of this policy is to ensure that public art at the University is managed and acquired under a strategic framework so that it positively enhances the University's overall campus environments and the on campus experiences of staff, students and the community.

Acquisition or Commission

Acquisition or commission of public art at the University will adhere to the following guiding principles:

- Any new public art proposed to be commissioned or acquired by or for the University will first be referred to the CDU Cultural Collections Advisory Board for consideration;
- No public art will be commissioned, acquired or accepted without the prior approval of the CDU Cultural Collections Advisory Board;
- The artwork should be appropriate to and enhance the public dimension of the University environment in which it is to be located;
- Campus master planning including development of new campus infrastructure will consider and incorporate public art as part of the design phase and allocate funding for public art works within the overall budget for new infrastructure projects as appropriate;
- Permanent public art intended for external location must be engineered to withstand monsoonal and cyclonic weather conditions at the University's northern campuses in Darwin, Palmerston and Katherine, and on all campuses must be constructed of materials that will not readily deteriorate with local weather conditions or require significant ongoing maintenance;
- Permanent public art must be designed and constructed such that it does not present a Work Health and Safety hazard to any campus user; and
- All acquisitions or commissions of public art will first give consideration to the probable costs associated with appropriate installation, maintenance and potential decommission of the art work prior to any purchase or approval.

In addition, the commission of public art will adhere to the following guiding principles:

- Where possible, artists are to be included in the early stages of the campus planning process to ensure the art work has a direct relationship to the proposed location and environment at the University;
- Commissioned artists should be encouraged to understand the cultural, historical and environmental context of the University in developing their concepts and producing their artwork; and
- Commissioned artists must be assessed to be appropriately qualified, experienced and reputable to be able to deliver work to a high standard and quality, on time and on budget.

Donations

The University may, from time to time be offered donations of public artworks, either existing or commissioned through sponsorship. Donations of public art will be dealt with as follows:

- All donations or proposals for sponsorship of public art will first be referred to the CDU Cultural Collections Advisory Board for consideration;
- Acceptance of donated public art will fall within the guidelines specified for acquisition or commission of public artworks at the University; and
- The University reserves the right to decline the donation of any artwork that does not meet the acquisition guidelines or is not approved by the CDU Cultural Collections Advisory Board.

De-commissioning

Public artwork located outdoors may have a finite lifespan due to the deterioration of materials and structures from weathering.

The University reserves the right to de-commission public artwork on any of its campuses or centres when such artwork is no longer relevant to its site or purpose, poses a risk to public safety or the environment, or is damaged or deteriorated beyond reasonable repair.

Public artworks proposed to be de-commissioned will first be referred to the CDU Cultural Collections Advisory Board for consideration.

Register

The University will establish and maintain a register of public artwork on its campuses.

Maintenance

All public artworks on University campuses will have a maintenance plan prepared, which is approved by the CDU Art Curator. Maintenance may include cleaning and minor repairs, which will, under normal circumstances, be undertaken by Facilities, in consultation with the CDU Art Curator, annually or as required.
