The International Graduate Centre of Education (IGCE) will host an International Symposium on Challenges in Global Learning: international contexts and cross-disciplinary responses. The objective of the symposium is to engage participants in discussions regarding the challenges and opportunities associated with designing education and training in an increasingly connected world. The range of the research presented and its links to practice make the symposium relevant for a wide spectrum of professionals involved in the field of education: teachers, leaders, managers and researchers.

Discussions will align with the four core research themes associated with the Graduate Centre research program: Wellbeing, Sustainability & Globalisation; Digital Futures & New Learning; Identity, Language & Culture; and Knowledges & Epistemologies.

Each of the themes will be opened by a guest presenter of international standing, followed by presentations of the research work conducted by students in the Master of Education International programme. Guest presenters include Professor Andrew-Peter Lian (Thailand/Australia), Professor Brian Mooney (CDU), Professor Koo Yew Lie (Malaysia & UK), Professor Peter Freebody (USyd), Professor Sue Shore (IGCE) and Professor Sven Silburn (Menzies School of Health).

Invitation

The International Graduate Centre of Education (IGCE) will host an International Symposium on Challenges in Global Learning: international contexts and cross-disciplinary responses. The objective of the symposium is to engage participants in discussions regarding the challenges and opportunities associated with designing education and training in an increasingly connected world. The range of the research presented and its links to practice make the symposium relevant for a wide spectrum of professionals involved in the field of education: teachers, leaders, managers and researchers.

Discussions will align with the four core research themes associated with the Graduate Centre research program: Wellbeing, Sustainability & Globalisation; Digital Futures & New Learning; Identity, Language & Culture; and Knowledges & Epistemologies.

Each of the themes will be opened by a guest presenter of international standing, followed by presentations of the research work conducted by students in the Master of Education International programme. Guest presenters include Professor Andrew-Peter Lian (Thailand/Australia), Professor Brian Mooney (CDU), Professor Koo Yew Lie (Malaysia & UK), Professor Peter Freebody (USyd), Professor Sue Shore (IGCE) and Professor Sven Silburn (Menzies School of Health).

Date: 7th November 2014

Venue: Building Blue 5 Lecture Theatre 1, Casuarina campus, Charles Darwin University

Symposium: 8.30am – 5.30pm

Dinner: 5:45pm – 7.30pm, ACIKE 2A (Asian theme)

RSVP: 20th October 2014

Dr Ania Lian: ania.lian@cdu.edu.au

Morning/afternoon tea and lunch will be provided.

For information and details contact

Dr Ania Lian: ania.lian@cdu.edu.au

cdu.edu.au/education/challenges-in-global-learning