To whom it may concern,

My name is Gwen Warmbirrirr and I have worked as a teacher at the school in Milingimbi for almost 38 years. Over the last few years, I have also spent time working with some of the researchers from the Northern Institute. We worked together on a project about governance and leadership.

I was interested to work on that project because we wanted to have a women's corporation up and running in Milingimbi, and wanted to get an understanding of how we could work as a group of women running an organisation and teaching our younger generations about Yolŋu way.

The project was good because those researchers were guiding us through how we could stand up on our own two feet and work as a team. We needed to understand the governance of how to run a corporation. They were mentoring and guiding us through, showing the way and then stepping back, so we could understand about how to run the business.

We hope that we can work some more with you guys, with the Northern Institute, in the near future.

Yours sincerely,

Gwen Warmbirrirr
Nyälka Secretary

Look far away (into the future) and nurture each other and strengthen each other for the sake of our new Yolŋu generations, respecting the place and law of Milingimbi women.
